

Painters

Members of the Peekskill Arts participating in AIM '19 event "Painting Poetry".

Inez Andrucyk

Inez has been painting director of Painting Poetry since its inception where community is the Medium. She has exhibited, curated, and been published in Connecticut, New York, and New Jersey, including murals in the Bronx and Portchester. She enjoys teaching faculty time at the Silvermine Art Guild School. Her work can be seen at: andinez.com

Kalpana Art

Kalpana is an artist and microbiologist working at the intersection between art and science. Her contemplative focus is on everyday objects and treasured possessions. Through the use of various forms of mixed media, her objective is to create a physical manifestation of a mind's eye. Kalpana completed a master's degree in Microbiology, and also studied art in India and Westchester community College. She has exhibited her work in several Indian galleries, Westchester Community College, and John C. Hart Library. <https://www.peekskillartsalliance.org/artist/>

Lawrence Flood

Lawrence Flood is a local artist with a BFA from the School of Visual Arts and a board member of the Peekskill Arts Alliance. His art can be seen online at: LawrenceFlood.com or on Facebook. He is looking forward to creating a visual response to spoken poetry.

Lawrenceflood.com

Toni Quest

Toni Quest has many talents. She has exhibited in and curated for galleries in New York City and Westchester County, NY. She is a published poet, a jeweler, and an adjunct professor. As a life coach for artists she explores how the creative individual, as sole proprietor, can become a successful entrepreneur. On her cable tv show, "Talk with TQ," Toni interviews thought-provoking individuals (also on YouTube), while co-hosting a podcast, Seeing Beneath the Surface, with Minnesota artist, Peter Elvidge. Her entrepreneurial spirit has become an exciting part of Painting Poetry. screamingwoman.com and www.energystoners.com

Sharon Rubinstein

Although Sharon Rubinstein's favorite subject is people, she also uses other imagery for inspiration in her drawings and paintings. Recently, she completed a 14-portrait project commissioned by the Jefferson Valley Mall in Yorktown Heights. These 18" x 24" oil paintings form a rotating selection near the food court on an ongoing basis. For more information, see www.yourcornerartist.com

Nadine Gordon-Taylor

Nadine Gordon-Taylor has created intuitive, symbolic drawings and paintings since she was a young child. She considers herself a 'translator' helping you to understand your soul purpose through nature. She has exhibited her artwork and given workshops across the country, and is in art collections around the world. She is the director of SIA Gallery and Owner of Third Eye Arts, both in Peekskill, NY. www.thethirdeyestudio.com

Chris Rigney

Rigney paints and does some print making, it takes up most of the day. The rest of the time is filled with crazy adventures, such as living in a double moated castle in the Netherlands, accidentally joining a cult in Norway, or spending a stint in an Arizona rehab learning to put on his own pants. With any luck all of these experiences pile up and eventually come out as intriguing doodles. If not, then the painting hits the round file and coffee break. Rigney's work can be seen in the studio or at www.rigney-christopher.com PS: - he walks the dog too.

procrastinatingtillthursday.wordpress.com

+1 919. 444. 1150

Cora Weis

Cora is a multi-media artist creating both two- and three-dimensional works. She is an advocate of recycled materials and acrylic paint. Group exhibitions: included: "Canned", "From Trash to Treasures", "Floating Sculptures" and P.A.A.'s "Open Studios". She curated the "Immigration" exhibition at the Unitarian Church and a Mardi Gras painting/collage solo show.

<https://www.peekskillartsalliance.org/artist/cora-weis/>